This elegant, Hawaiian style estate has more beachfront lineage than many on the island. It's steep slip roof and two and a half acres are filled with palm trees, ironwoods, plumeria trees, and local plants. It's a return in time and perfect for family and friend getaways that require a little space between or staff housing.

Kailua Bay is the island's most beautiful with three miles of white sand, a few local surf spots, and a sandy bottom for hours of ocean-filled fun. Arranging surfboards, kayaks, stand up paddleboards, outrigger canoe paddling, and much more add to the enjoyment. This is the easiest beach to get in and out of the water with its' easy, rolling waves; it's paradise.

Kailua town is a small community with restaurants, boutiques, grocery markets, Whole Foods, watering holes, and a new speakeasy. You can easily ride into town on bicycles from this home.
